Reference to our advertising columns will disclose several new "ads" which are well worth a careful perusal. A prospective purchaser usually reads up on the particular kind of thing he intends to buy, in order to educate himself on the different sides of the subject; hence, people read advertisements.

It seemed for a while Monday night, that the school entertainment would be seriously interfered with, owing to an accident at the power house, which caused the lights to fail completely, leaving the town in darkness for a half hour or more, just as the crowd was gathering. About 8:20, however, everything was in order and the entertainment proceeded and the program was carried out as advertised last week. The play was a great hit, and a most pleasant surprise to the large audience. The numbers were good throughout. The drill entitled "Indian Huntresses" was spectacular enough for any stage, and was the most beautiful thing imaginable—it simply beggars description. The TRIBUTE congratulates the management on the high class character of the entertainment presented to the public Monday night.

POEMS TO MEMORIZE

This department is a sort of "Poet's Corner." Under the heading "Poems to Memorize" will be found some old familiar poem each week which, we believe will be of interest to our readers.

WHEN IN DISGRACE.

BY WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE.

When in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes,
I all alone beweep my outcast state,
And trouble deaf heaven with my bootless cries,
And look upon myself and curse my fate,
Wishing me like one more rich in hope,
Featur'd like him, like him with friends possess'd,
Desiring this man's art and that man's scope,
With what I most enjoy contented least;
Yet in these thoughts myself almost despising,
Haply I think on thee and then my state,
(Like to the lark at break of day arising,
From sullen earth), sings hymns at heaven's gate;
For thy sweet love remember'd such wealth brings
That then I scorn to change my state with kings.

There were 2,624 converts, and the free will offering for Mr. Sunday taken Sunday amounted to over $6,000—the largest collection ever given him by any town where he has held a meeting. The converts include councilmen, lawyers, physicians, dentists, editors, the chief of police and many other prominent citizens.

In our observation the men who have made the best success with corn have been the men who have been selecting their seed corn on the same farm for the last ten, fifteen or twenty years. Don't be afraid for a moment of the corn running out on a good corn farm that is kept in a fine state of fertility. If it does, there is something wrong with the selecting of the seed or the care given it after planting. Both the experiment stations, the corn growers associations, and individual farmers have for the last three or four years been paying special attention to this subject of seed selection. We are satisfied that twenty years from now farmers in the United States at least will change their notions about the advantage in exchanging seed, or buying seed of any kind grown in different environments.—Wallace Farmer.

Old Citizen Passed Away.

The past few months have been remarkable for the numerous deaths among the old pioneers of Montgomery, and last Saturday, March 9, 1907, death again laid his hand on one of the oldest citizens, removing from this life, John Wiseman Cole, aged 83 years and 5 months. He had been suffering with lagrippe and dropsy for some time until heart trouble finally brought on death. He died at the home of his son, Ben, in this city. The remains were taken to Mt. Horeb cemetery, 8 miles southwest of Mineola, for burial, Sunday March 10th, where they rest by the side of his wife and a son who preceded him.

Mr. Cole was born and raised in this county and resided here almost continuously during his lifetime. He was one of those who was fortunate enough to make the overland trip to California during the "gold rush," after gold had been discovered in California in 1848. His health failed him in a short time, however, and compelled him to return, with his yoke of oxen, to Missouri to recuperate. He was well known all over this county, and highly respected.

He is survived by five sons—H. L., of Mokane, Mo., J. L., of Fulton, Mo., J. D., of Mineola, W. M., of St. Louis, and Ben of this city; one daughter, Mrs. J. J. Tate, of Mineola. There are also three surviving brothers; Henry, of Danville, Mo., Thomas, of Mineola Mo., and Lafayette, of Prairie Fork neighborhood, who lives on the old Cole homestead.

St. Louisian to Get $10,000.

A Fort Worth, Texas, appeal to the Globe-Democrat under date of March 11, has the following to say of the late Otto Monnig. He was a brother to Hugo Monnig, Sr., of Rhineland, this county, who is the only survivor of the three original Monnig brothers who were the progenitors of the house of Monnig in this country:

The will of Otto Monnig, filed for probate today, shows the estate is valued at $120,000. Except bequests amounting to $46,000, the estate is left equally to the seven children, five of whom reside in this city. The other two are Jos. H. Monnig of St. Louis and Mrs. J. A. Coates, of Los Angeles, Cal. Each will get about $10,000.

From Jefferson City.

The Legislature is grinding out work this week in bunches of three to six bills at once. The impression here now is that we will adjourn about Friday, March 15 at noon.

The excise bill passed the house last week, also the primary bill providing that all political parties hold a primary on the same day at the same place and will doubtless pass the upper branch and be signed by the Governor.

House bill 55 relating to preservation of game was amended by the senate, a new section being added thereto, creating the office of game warden and some more amendments of less importance added to it. While the senate was doing this the house got busy and struck out the appropriation for the salary and expenses of the game warden $35,000 thereby serving notice on the senate that they would not stand for a game warden.

The general appropriation bills have all passed the house.

The farmers of the house capture $775,000 for the highways or country roads if the general appropriation bill passes the Senate as amended. In the house the $475,000 war fund will be divided equally between the 115 counties, the city of St. Louis being the same as one county, and each county will get $41.30, and the $500,000 will be divided according to assessed valuation. No one county or city of St. Louis to get more than 5 per cent. The farmer members of the house served notice on the house that they had not had a fair shake in the past and would have to be reckoned with in the future. They literally descended on the appropriation bill, held it up, cut the $475,000 out for the country road fund after a desperate fight on the floor of the House then passed it up to engrossment and final passage.

If the Governor signs the Dowell bill taxing future sales on exchanges there will be an additional $500,000 during the next two years for good roads. The dram shop bill was up before the House Saturday evening and several amendments were put on it. I believe it will pass the house by a big majority, but in the hurry to get the appropriation bills through it was lost sight of and will likely be up again this Monday morning. The prohibition J. & C. resolution will pass the House if it ever gets out of the committee but at present it is smothered in the committee with chances against it ever getting out or coming to a vote.
